D. Y. Patil Deemed to be University School of Ayurveda Research Advisory Committee (RAC) came into existence with a mission to enable faculty and students in the research arena through resourceful endeavours. Our purpose is to propagate research that is relevant beyond the confines of the university.

The Research Advisory Committee (RAC) comprises of eminent faculty who are well versed in the research methodology. Our objective is to promote and support research in Ayurveda with ethical responsibility, integrity and regulatory compliance. Our team has always strived for the benefit of society by encouraging research proposals for management of communicable as well as non-communicable diseases.

Within our university, our research is infused into our teaching. It creates empirical educational opportunities that enrich the student experience, and provides transferable skills that make our students more successful in their respective fields.

On behalf of the Research Advisory Committee, I wish good luck for success in all walks of research avenues to the students, research scholars and faculty.
